

Jillian Rogin (BA Hons, Trent University), (MES, York University), (LLB University of Windsor), LLM (Osgoode Hall, York University) is a practicing criminal defence lawyer. She joined the University of Windsor, Faculty of Law, in 2017 as Assistant (Clinic) Professor. Prior to her appointment she was duty counsel (criminal) and then worked as a Review Counsel at Community Legal Aid (CLA), a SLASS clinic in the Windsor-Essex region. She teaches criminal procedure and clinic law and her research interests include judicial interim release, evidentiary issues in sexual assault law, feminist/post-colonial theory, and legal ethics. She and her partner Andrew are the proud parents of a vivacious three year old.